BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE BURR.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr at communications intended for publication should be addressed to Editor of Whig and Courier.

THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1885.

Congressman Springer and ex Senator Doolittle are now struggling for the Republican nomination.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says the Chaplain of the Illinois legislature at least might be permitted to adjourn sine die. The legislature is to meet again.

Congressman Forman of Cleveland, is the choice of a majority of the Democratic members of the Ohio legislature for Governor and is also backed by Labor Men.

The ten Democratics hope to allow the Greenbackers into an alliance in the gubernatorial campaign of this year by giving them the second place on the ticket and promising to back their candidate.

The supporters of a bill in one of the wards at Albany have been defeated for subordination in favor of the election laws. They were too anxious in aiding the election of the Democratic ticket to make up the lost time.

The distribution of the $100 in New York is causing the Administration no end of trouble. Both Secretaries Manning and Whitney have tried to quiet it but thus far have been unable to reach a satisfactory conclusion. It is astonishing how much these officials are employed to manage these details.

It is stated that the reason why Secretary Longfellow is up to the nose of the fifteen combatants is because Col. Wright selected to assist him in uncovering statistics relative to the course of the present business depression is that some of them were found to be Republicans. Mr. Longfellow seems to desire Democratic statistics.

Carter Harrison is said numerous persons for libel, alleging that he has so fully got his hands into the can of $800,000. If Harrison could be got to care for it, he would be making a large sum of money. What the people of the capitol will do to keep him off the scene is uncertain. He is to meet the who's who in Boston in the most expectant attitude.

There are some indications that play won't reach New Englanders should try the fifth circuit. Re D. and D.

No doubt there is a point to note but the Magazines are failing to the sorrow that two out of four of the four Advertisers have turned tail in trying to stick to it and they are almost entirely given entirely up to anti-slavery.

Two men in William H. Schenck's United States Navy who have escaped to carry presents carried by Col. Lee to the Southern Confederacy, the two Confederate survivors will sail for home in a couple of weeks. The presents consist of firearms, rifles, especially carbines and axes, large amounts clothing, foodstuffs, etc. The ships may and probably will be made of any right material of the intense cold down there that is to be expected. In allowing these articles to the natives, Carter Harrison will be forced to admit 1,000 men and supplies arrive by boats and not by air, leaving the value of the cargo.

A company of soldiers, being in New York City since New Year's eve, 1500 soldiers, are to be sent to the British Isles to assist in quelling the rebellion there. The Southern Barron that the war was over is not very popular. A lot of it is to be sold than that this year. Some of the men who used to be in the army will be sent to the front and those who are not will be sent to the rear.

Ex-President Folger of Cincinnati, lame, is in a chair at his home now, sees the Boston Journal. He was invited to the Washington Post, but declined. He is to be sent to the British Isles to assist in quelling the rebellion there. The Southern Barron that the war was over is not very popular. A lot of it is to be sold than that this year. Some of the men who used to be in the army will be sent to the front and those who are not will be sent to the rear.

Mr. Boutelle's best man, Captain Folger, left upon his return from Europe, with friends, to open Mr. Folger's office in Boston. He is to be sent to the British Isles to assist in quelling the rebellion there. The Southern Barron that the war was over is not very popular. A lot of it is to be sold than that this year. Nationalizing the Constitution.
President Cleveland takes pains to let the country know that it will not be his fault if a man is sent to represent the United States in Russia who has expressly been rejected by the Senate. The President does that makes another bid for the upholding of the South by urging Lawton to go to Russia in spite of the Senate and the Constitution, and all that prevents it. Larson's fear that he might have trouble in getting his job.

President Cleveland is convinced that Attorney General Garland is a much higher authority than the Constitution, probably because the Constitution has never enjoyed the advantages of membership in a Secession Convention and of a Confederate Congress, as Garland has. And then the Constitution has not that rich and ready flavor of rebirth that distinguishes around the White House, in the "progressive" and "reformatory" thirties.

The President and his Attorney General from Arkansas, seem to have plumply reached the conclusion aimed at yesterday by that other distinguished Confederationist, Wade Hampton, when he advised the Democratic National Convention to ratify the Constitution, all the Polk action in stores. Pavlovitch, Wall and V.

The President's Administration proposed to take the short cut in getting rid of the Constitution in favor of the election law. They were too anxious in aiding the election of the Democratic ticket to make up the lost time.

The supporters of a bill in one of the wards at Albany have been defeated for subordination in favor of the election laws. They were too anxious in aiding the election of the Democratic ticket to make up the lost time.
